For Immediate Release

Horsburgh & Scott Hires Experienced Technical Sales Manager for Sugar, Tire & Rubber and Plastics.
Albert Stokely brings over thirty years of gearing expertise to the position.

Cleveland, OH: October 6, 2014 – Horsburgh & Scott has announced that Albert Stokely will join the company as its new Technical Sales Manager focused on the sugar, tire & rubber and plastics markets, selling all gearing products and services.

Stokely brings 34 years of experience in gearing from Lufkin Industries where he started as a machinist and then worked as the manufacturing supervisor. He helped set up the service center in Alabama, learning field service, troubleshooting, rebuild and repair needs and techniques. In 2003, he was promoted to southeast operations manager and set up a new repair center, growing it to 32 employees in 5 years. In 2009, Stokely took over leadership of the Lufkin production and repair facility where he managed 80 employees and continued to build his gearing expertise.
